INFORMATION FOR CRUISE MEMBERS

Please Read Carefully:

Mail and Telegrams—Letters, Packages, etc., for passengers are brought on board steamer before embarkation and placed in the passengers' rooms. For information relating to mail, passengers are invited to call at the Chief Steward's office.

Seats at Table—Application for dining room seats may be made to the Chief Steward before sailing, or on embarkation.

Hours for meals are posted on the ship's bulletin board.

Cruise members not wishing to dress for attendance in the Dining Salon, may have their meals served in the Lido Restaurant.

Valuables—For the convenience of passengers, the Line has provided safe deposit boxes in the Purser's office in which any valuables may be deposited upon payment to the Purser of $5.00, this amount to be refunded when the key of the deposit box is returned. However, the Line does not assume any responsibility for the safe custody of such articles. (Passengers may, if they wish, protect themselves by insurance.)

Ship's Newspapers—The "Ocean Post" will be published on board giving latest news of the day. New York Stock Exchange quotations will be published on the ship's bulletin board three times daily while at sea. The "South American Mercury" which contains the ship's program and current events is also published on board ship. Both newspapers are distributed to passengers with the compliments of the Holland-America Line.

Swimming Pools—Passengers will find at their disposal a beautiful white delft-tiled indoor swimming pool on "E" deck. There is also an outdoor swimming pool located on the Sports Deck (A Deck).

Squash Racquets Courts and Turkish Baths—Adjoining the indoor swimming pool on "E" deck, there is a fine squash racquets court, also Turkish and medicinal baths.

Gymnasium and Solarium—A private elevator connects the swimming pool to the Gymnasium and Solarium which is located on the Sun Deck. The solarium which adjoins the gymnasium, has a transparent glass ceiling and is ideal for sun worshippers.

Shops—There is an up-to-date shop on the Promenade Deck located between the theatre and the Main Lounge. This shop is operated by the N. V. Magazyn de Byenkorf (The Beehive) of Amsterdam, the Hague and Rotterdam.

Medical Attention—The services rendered and the medicines prescribed by the ship's physician are free of charge. However, the Holland-America Line assumes no responsibility for services rendered by the ship's physician.

Nurses—Registered nurses are in attendance on board. Their services, under the direction of the ship's doctor, are at the cruise members' disposal.

Hospital—The ship is provided with a modern hospital of 21 beds, located on "B" deck and also has a specially equipped Operating Room. There is also an Isolation Hospital forward on the Promenade Deck.

Barber Shop and Beauty Parlor—There are two barber shops and two beauty parlors at the disposal of cruise members.

Baggage Room—Passengers may store baggage not required regularly during the cruise in a special baggage room situated on "D" deck.

Telephone and Radio—All cabins numbered up to 334 have telephones for ship use only. For the convenience of passengers, who in case of emergency or urgent business, desire to communicate with friends at home, a short wave radio-telephone is maintained for telephone services with any part of the world. A Radio Room is located on the Upper Promenade Deck where passengers may transmit messages at any time.

Port Holes—Passengers are warned to refrain from opening or closing port holes themselves. If passengers should wish to have their port holes closed or opened, they should call their room steward. Passengers ignoring this warning do so at their own risk, and the Company assumes no liability in case of accident.

Additional Payments On Board—Passengers paying any supplements for room transfers, additional passage money, freight, telegrams, etc., should obtain a receipt from the Purser on board.

Baggage Insurance—The Company's liability for damage to or loss or detention of baggage is strictly limited, and passengers, are, therefore, advised to protect themselves by insurance against risk of loss, theft, damage, pilferage, etc. Policies may be obtained at current rates at any office of the Line or through the Baggage Master on board this steamer.

Laundry—A completely equipped laundry is maintained on board. When you have any laundry to be done, merely inform your room steward.

Tailor Shop—There is a Tailor shop on "D" deck forward. It is equipped to clean, press and repair clothes.

Chapel—The Card Room on the Promenade Deck is designed for conversion into a Chapel. It has an altar, whose doors when opened, reveal an ivory crucifix and two panels in white on silver. On the left is Mary, Star of the Sea, and on the right St. Christopher, Patron Saint of Travelers.

Air Conditioning—The air conditioning installation in the S. S. NIEUW AMSTERDAM is the most complete of any ship afloat. It serves the dining salon, the barber shop, beauty parlor and the theatre.

Transportation and Importation of Liquors and Perfumes—There are definite U. S. and local governmental restrictions regarding the amount of liquors and perfumes that incoming passengers are permitted to bring into the United States under their $100 allowance. Tourists should therefore acquaint themselves with these restrictions.

For example, under prevailing regulations, returning residents of the United States are allowed only one gallon of wines or liquors, free of duty; all above that amount is subject to the current Federal and State duties and taxes. The quantity and brands of perfumes permitted under the $100 allowance are likewise strictly limited, and the list too extensive to be given here.

The Purser will be glad to give passengers full information regarding the most recent Customs regulations and restrictions.

The Holland-America Line will be pleased to accept for free transportation liquor bought by passengers at various ports en route; but in rendering this service, the Management declines any and all responsibility in case of non-delivery on board, and loss, damage or theft of such merchandise. A charge of $1.00 per case, however, is made to cover cooperage and handling expenses.

Passengers are advised that they are not permitted to import liquors into the United States in containers of greater capacity than one gallon.

Important—Cruise members on re-embarking at the various ports should notify their room stewards that they have arrived on board. Full co-operation is necessary in this respect so as not to cause unnecessary inconvenience to fellow-passengers. Special attention should be paid to the notices relative to the tender service — particularly the time of the last tender leaving the shore, as the "NIEUW AMSTERDAM" will leave port punctually at the time announced.

Passengers are cautioned not to leave their cabins unlocked while the ship is in port.

Your Sea-Going Home—Desiring to render perfect service at all times, the Holland-America Line is eager to satisfy the wishes of all passengers. We recognize that this can be successfully accomplished only with your co-operation. The Management will sincerely appreciate your giving any helpful suggestions or criticism to the Captain, the Cruise Director or the Purser.
